Wizard Pick-Up Lines

Jack and Hiccup were walking down the halls of Hogwarts on their way to their next class, Defense Against the Dark Arts. Jack slung his staff over his shoulder as they walked through the hallway. They coordinated their schedules to be the same just so they could see each other more often, since Jack was in Slytherin and Hiccup was in Ravenclaw. They made their way to the classroom and entered through the corridor.

Hiccup and Jack took their seats at one of the tables. Merida and Rapunzel took the two seats right in front of them so they could all sit in a small cluster. The girls looked at Jack and Hiccup and giggled. They were the only two people in the entire school who knew about Jack and Hiccup's secret affair. I they were to get caught, Jack would get his position as Keeper taken away. As for Hiccup, Ravenclaw would probably look down on him and exclude him. Basically treat him like how everyone used to treat him back on Berk before he found Toothless.

Most of their classes consisted of Hiccup taking notes in the lesson and Jack either sleeping or making snowflakes. Time passed and the bell rang signaling school was over. Jack woke up from his nap and jolted up from his chair. He watched Hiccup grab his books, jumping urgently to leave.

He and Hiccup usually go to the courtyard afterschool to hangout. They always meet Merida and Rapunzel there too but today the girls had a meeting for some club they are in. So today it was just Jack and Hic.

The two made their way over to the courtyard and sat down at a table.

The area was empty and it was only the boys. Since it was only the two of them in the courtyard, an idea sparked Jack's attention.

Jack smirked and looked over at Hiccup. Hiccup yawned making jack think of something corny. "Hey Hic, you seem tired. If you're going to bed, mind if I Slytherin?" Hiccup looked at Jack and his face flushed red. "Jack! " He was surprised and pleased by his boyfriend's reaction and decided to continue.

"Well are you sure you're not a bottle of Skele-Gro cause you're giving me a bone." Jack said. He could have sworn Hiccup's face got even redder. "Jack, don't be so lewd!" Hiccup exclaimed. Jack was ready to burst out laughing when he had thought of his best one yet.

"Maybe after you study we could go somewhere a little private," Jack slowly leaned closer to Hiccup and whispered in his ear, "I wanna stick my Sorcerer's Stone in your Chamber of Secrets and release the Prisoner of Azkaban into your Goblet of Fire giving the Order of Phoenix making my Half Blood Prince rise and give you the Deathly Hallows"

Hiccup stood up, face fully flushed the deepest shade of red, and faced his smirking boyfriend. "Jack! How could you be so lewd!? Isn't there any sort of sweet romantic up in that empty head of yours?!" He grabbed his books and started to storm off until a hand grabbed a hold of his wrist. He tried to release Jacks grasp but to no avail.

>Jack spun Hiccup around in one swift movement as the books fell to the ground. He held Hiccup into an embrace like no other. It was a feeling of hot and cold. "Hiccup, look at me," Jack said in a soft voice so only the two of them could hear, "If you were a Dementor, I would become a criminal just to get your kiss." Hiccup couldn't help but smile sweetly.

"You must be my horcrux, because you complete me." Jack said, as he looked straight into Hiccup's big green eyes. The two stood there for a while until Hiccup looked up at Jack's snow-white hair and bright blue eyes. "Jack, you've got the portkey to my heart"
